

TWO BISHOPS WILL REVIEW HOLY NAME PARADE ON SUNDAY

O. B. Corrigan, of Baltimore, and D. J. O'Connell, of Richmond, Have Honored Posts.

Plans were completed today for two bishops to review the Holy Name Society parade Sunday afternoon from the south balcony of the hotel, instead of from a grandstand at Fifteenth and Pennsylvania avenues, as was originally intended. The executive committee having charge of the parade arrangements said sufficient time did not remain for the construction of the grandstand, and the invitation of the hotel management to use the balcony was accepted.

The two prelates who will review the parade in which between 15,000 and 17,000 members of the Holy Name Society will participate, are Bishop O. B. Corrigan, of Baltimore, and Bishop D. J. O'Connell, of Richmond. They will occupy positions on the balcony with the officers of the society in Washington and Baltimore.

Boys' Band Coming. Bishop Corrigan is spiritual director of the archdiocesan union, and the marchers from his church in Baltimore. St. Gregory's, will head the parade Sunday afternoon. These marchers will be escorted from St. Mary's Industrial School, over which Bishop Corrigan also exercises supervision. Another band from the Washington and Maryland parades, from St. John's Church, the largest Catholic congregation in Baltimore.

It was said today that there will be more than 15,000 men in line when the parade starts. Each of the marchers will wear blue or black uniforms, and carry a pennant. A majority of the pennants will be of pale blue and white, the Holy Name Society colors, a great many will be of other hues, and the colors of various parishes in Washington and Baltimore. Michael D. Schaefer, president of the Holy Name Society of the Washington and Maryland district, said today no one would be mounted in the parade. All the marchers will be on foot, and will wear frock coats, silk hats, and carry canes.

Man 92 To March. Among the marchers Sunday will be Michael Coffey, ninety-two years old, who has been a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church for almost sixty years. He has announced his intention of marching with the delegation from his church.

Harry A. Walsh, grand marshal of the parade, said today the column would leave the Capitol promptly at 2:30 o'clock, passing up Pennsylvania avenue to the Monument Lot, where the impressive religious exercises will be held. In the line of march with the Holy Name Society members will be several platoons of police and a troop of cavalry from Fort Myer. The police will patrol the Monument Lot during the benediction of the blessed sacrament, and the religious exercises will be held at the base of the monument and hill sloping to the north. It is expected that 50,000 or more persons will view the parade, and attend the ceremonies on the Monument Lot.

To Have Big Delegation. Holy Trinity Church in Georgetown will furnish one of the largest delegations in the parade. At a meeting held in Holy Trinity hall last night John E. Doyle, who presided, received reports showing that Holy Trinity would enter 500 men and 150 boys. The 600 marchers will form in line in front of the church at 1:30 and parade to the Capitol, where they will join the other participants in the parade. The Holy Trinity marchers will be accompanied by a troop of cavalry from Fort Myer. St. Peter's Church, which is expected to enter 200 men and 150 boys, according to statements made at a meeting last night, will fully 1,000 members. The Holy Name Society, have signified their intention of forming at North Capitol and streets half an hour before the parade starts.

To Carry New Banner. At a meeting in Trinity hall last night announcement was made that the marchers from Georgetown would carry with them the new silk banner presented by the Rev. E. M. Corbett, S. J., an altar cloth, the work of Mrs. Joseph E. Freeman, was presented to the church at last night's meeting.

Columbus Day to Be Observed at Gonzaga College Sunday Night

Knights of Columbus arranging for the celebration of Discovery Day in Gonzaga College Hall at 8 o'clock Sunday night are rapidly completing their plans. Owing to the weather, the celebration of many visitors who will participate in the Holy Name Society parade, it is expected many of them will attend the celebration.

Justice Ashley M. Gould, of the District Supreme Court, will be the principal speaker, and State Deputy William P. Normandy will also make an address. Music will be furnished by Miss Edna E. Egan, accompanied by Miss Jennie Glennan, and George O'Connor, accompanied by Matthew P. Horne.

SEWER TREATMENT WORKS HERE URGED

Advocating the acquisition of land for the erection of sewer treatment works, Mrs. E. Phillips, superintendent of the District sewer department in his report submitted to the Commissioners today, urges the utility of the water works, that is poured annually into the Potomac river from Washington.

"It is not too soon to begin preparation of plans for sewerage treatment works," says the report after stating that more than 12,000,000 gallons of untreated sewage is being discharged each year into the river under the present system.

Several years for the complete development of the plans for the treatment of sewage will be required, according to the report. Mr. Phillips says that a preliminary study of the plant has already been made.

Attention is called in the report to the serious menace to the health of residents of the District by the pollution of streams running from Maryland towns.

were a becoming of black fur. Her hat was of the latest style.

Prior to the departure of the engaged couple Washington was filled with rumors that the President and Mrs. Galt might make upon the trip to New York as an opportunity for a quiet wedding.

Reports Denied.

These reports, however, were declared at the White House to be groundless.

The President and his party planned to have luncheon on the train. Arriving at New York about 3 o'clock, they will motor to the home of Col. and Mrs. E. M. House, and later will take an automobile trip through the shopping district, where it is understood, the President will purchase the engagement ring.

Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, is expected to join the party at dinner this evening at the home of Colonel House. A theater party will occupy the rest of the evening.

The President will spend the night with the House family. Tomorrow morning the President and his family will leave for Philadelphia, where they will witness the second game of the world's championship baseball series. It is expected that the President will be in the grandstand, and at the opening of the game the President will toss the ball from the grandstand to the umpire.

Immediately after the game the President and his party will board a special train, leaving for Washington at 6 o'clock in the evening. On the return trip, with them at the White House will be Misses Smith, relatives of the President.

Many Congratulations.

Letters and telegrams continued today to pile in at the White House congratulating the President and his future bride.

Many of these were from members of the United States Congress, including Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador; Sir Arthur Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, and Jules Jusserand, French ambassador.

In the pile of messages were many from humble persons all over the United States, who had written to show that the whole nation was rejoicing in the marriage of the President and his bride.

Secret Service Men To Guard President From Many "Friends"

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Hordes of policemen and Secret Service men will guard President Wilson and his bride today as they make their way to Washington upon their arrival in New York.

A drizzling rain threatened to mar the visit of the President and Mrs. Galt and the President's shopping trip in search of an engagement ring. Today's trip to New York is the first public appearance of the President and his fiancée since announcement of their engagement, and the President's trip to New York is the first public appearance of the President and his fiancée since announcement of their engagement, and the President's trip to New York is the first public appearance of the President and his fiancée since announcement of their engagement.

The President and Mrs. Galt will be guests of honor at a theater party to follow dinner at the apartment of Colonel House.

GREGORY TO PROBE BIG STEEL MERGER

Department of Justice Ready to Investigate All Attempts at Combination.

Attempts to combine able competing businesses in the United States will be subject to the closest scrutiny by the Department of Justice.

This is in substance the attitude of Attorney General Gregory on mergers and business combinations.

The position of the Department of Justice with respect to the proposed combination of independent steel manufacturers was made clear by the Attorney General last night in an official statement, intimating that he believes such combination to be illegal and in violation of the Sherman law. He says likewise that regardless of any other conditions all proposed combinations of independent steel manufacturers will be the subject of close scrutiny.

The statement makes it clear that the Attorney General has no idea of abating the prosecution of the Steel Trust, and that other prosecutions will continue on a smoothing out of divergent opinions of the law by circuit courts. The statement is as follows:

"It cannot be denied that if it was lawful to unite through the United States Steel Corporation, one-half of the competitive units in the steel trade, the other half would also have the right to combine. And, of course, what could be done in the steel trade could be done in every other branch of trade, thus virtually putting an end to competition."

The decision of the circuit judges of the Third circuit in the steel case is not yet the established law. It is because of just such consequences that the Government has the right to decide. Besides, in the Harvester case a court of equal rank took a very different view of the law.

"The question is now pending before the Supreme Court. In the meantime, competitors to combine able and efficient competitors, affecting trade over a wide area, will be subjected to the closest scrutiny by the Department of Justice."

It was Mr. Zaimis whom Mr. Venizelos recommended as his successor when he resigned the premiership last March.

Mr. Zaimis has been premier twice before. He is a native of the island of Crete, and is the son of a Premier and one of the three members of the national delegation to Prince George of Denmark, who was the father of Constantine, the present Hellenic ruler.

Four other members have served as premiers.

Bulgar Manifesto Says National Unity Caused Action Against Allies

BERLIN (via Saville), Oct. 8.—Bulgaria has joined the central powers because only thus can all Bulgarian peoples be united, according to a manifesto issued today in the Frankfurter Zeitung.

For her aid, continues the manifesto, Bulgaria has received the promise of parts of Serbia, giving Bulgaria a front with Hungary, an absolute necessity, it is declared to Bulgarian independence.

The allies' pledges, says the statement, were disbelieved.

Russia is denounced by the manifesto as seeking to win Constantinople and the Dardanelles. Great Britain, as aiming for Alsace-Lorraine, and the other allied powers as plotting to divide the Balkan countries, while Germany and Austria are upheld as defenders of property and peaceful progress.

Serbia is declared Bulgaria's worst enemy, and accused of oppression, "purely Bulgarian Macedonia with unheard-of barbarism."

The Austro-Germans, adds the manifesto, are victorious on all fronts, and it would be suicidal for Bulgaria not to be found on the German and Austrian side.

LOCAL AND N. Y. FINANCIAL NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Further Advances During Early Trading Followed by Realizing Movement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Further advances in prices during the early trading on the stock exchange today was followed by what appeared to be a realizing movement of considerable proportions shortly before noon. The volume of trading continued heavy, sales for the first hour being 7,000 shares.

While substantial gains were recorded by the industrial issues during the first hour, shortly before midday long stock came on the market in large blocks, with the result that prices reacted from the high of the day, but continued in the majority of instances above the last figures of the previous day.

Bethlehem Steel, the sensational feature of yesterday's market, rose and then fell, ending at 125 1/2, after fluctuating sharply on each succeeding sale in the first two hours, it became comparatively quiet at noon and hovered around 125.

United States Steel advanced a full point to 81; Colorado Fuel and Iron was up 1/2 point to 60 1/2, and Crucible gained 3 points, but later eased off. Great Northern Ore at 50 1/2 was up 3/4 point.

General Motors made another of its sharp advances, touching 350, or 13 1/2 points above yesterday's last sale price.

Equipment issues, following the trend of steel stocks, made substantial gains. American Steel Foundries sold at the highest price since 1908, bringing 59 1/2, and the American Locomotive and American Locomotive each advanced 1 point or more.

Wall Street recorded general gains, but the advances were not so large as on yesterday. Reading rose 1/2 point to 127, but lost a portion of its advance in the reaction, and Western Maryland registered a gain of 1/4 point to 31. Southern Railway, Norfolk and Western were particularly strong.

TECH TEACHERS PLAN APPEAL FOR RELIEF

With classes so large that they are unwieldy and a school day that extends to 4 o'clock in the afternoon in some departments, teachers at McKinley Manual Training School are informally discussing plans to make formal pleas to relieve the situation.

The enrollment at McKinley this year is the largest in its history, 1,315, and this number is gradually increasing. The largest enrollment at any time last year was 1,250.

While other schools have five or six period days (the periods indicating the number of classes) McKinley is now running on an eight-period day in its shop and manual training departments. One teacher who, only three years ago, and 140 pupils, now has 240.

Principal Frank Daniel today said the numbers in many of the classes throughout the school are too large, and while teachers in many schools are teaching but four periods a day, the teachers at McKinley must teach five periods.
